Injuries Ruin Grizzly Hopes For Victory

Loss of Reagan, Bryan, Jones Lowers Chances Against Ducks

Just as Montana's Silvertip Grizzlies seemed to have found themselves, the injury jinx catches Coach Doug Fessenden's gridders, making them the underdog in their contest with Oregon tomorrow instead of the toss-up choice they had earned with an upset victory over Gonzaga.

Injuries to three key backs in practice sessions this week darkened the Grizzlies' chances of stopping the Ducks on the Eugene field. Johnny Reagan, who tossed the touchdown pass in the closing minutes that defeated Gonzaga, is nursing strained ligaments in his knee and is a doubtful starter. Don Bryan, the other Grizzly passer, is troubled with a sore shoulder, and Bill Jones, most consistent kicker on the squad, was left home with a severe charley-horse. Roy Gustafson, end, is also on the injured list as an old rib and back hurt is keeping him out of scrimmage.

Oregon Defeated Four Times

Oregon, who has suffered four straight defeats and a tie by coast conference opponents to date this season, will outweigh Montana by at least 10 pounds per man. The Ducks average 190 pounds per man, with the linemen tipping the scales at a 196-pound average.

The Webfeet also have a tall squad, 33 players being more than six feet tall. In spite of their height, however, the Oregonians have completed but five passes for 52 yards in 39 attempts. The one department Coach Ted Oliver of the Ducks is not worried about is kicking, thanks to Leonard "Izzy" Isberg, the best kicker on the coast. Isberg has an average of 43 yards a kick from the line of scrimmage. His punting is one of the main reasons for the Webfeet's strong defense and the low scores compiled by the strong coast opponents of Oregon this fall.

Ducks Will Use Power

Oregon will probably resort to power drives through the line for most of their offensive yardage. The Ducks use a Notre Dame T offense, similar to that the Gonzaga Bulldogs used in dropping a 13-10 contest to the Grizzlies last week.

Jim Stuart, 212-pound all-American mention man, and March Stenstrom, 202-pound fullback, are expected to give the Grizzlies the most trouble.

Montana has not played an Oregon eleven since 1934 when the Ducks scored a 13-0 triumph in Eugene. The only other Grizzly excursion to Webfeet ground resulted in a 31-6 thumping in 1928. Should the Silvertips score their first victory over Oregon this year the Montanans would have a fine chance of finishing off the schedule undefeated.

Fessenden hopes to start the same lineup he used against Gonzaga with the exception of center. The mentor was uncertain as to whether "Biff" Hall or Johnny Dratz would get the call at the pivot spot.

Traditions board will meet at 5 o'clock Monday in the ASMSU office. Sentinel pictures will be taken.

Blocker

Hope for a Grizzly victory in the game at Eugene tomorrow rests largely upon the broad shoulders of Bob Sparks, Butte.

Cocky Freshmen Challenge Sophs

Whereas, the class of '44 feels immensely superior to the class of '43, and whereas, there has been a traditional battle between the freshman and sophomore classes in former years, and whereas, as class of '43 was fortunate enough to immerse victorious in such combat last year, we, the class of '44, hereby challenge the class of '43 to combat at their convenience to determine if the class of '43 is fit to rule the underclassmen.

Signed,

THE CLASS OF '44,
Blu Middleton, President.

Senior Lawyers Take Part In Nathan Burkan Contest

Senior law students will participate in the fourth annual Nathan Burkan Memorial competition, sponsored by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, Walter Coombs, Missoula, Law Association president, announced yesterday.

Papers on the subject of "Copyright Law" will be submitted by the students to Charles W. Leaphart, dean of the law school, or a law school faculty committee selected by Leaphart. An award of $100 will be paid by the society to the winning student, who, in the opinion of the dean or the delegated committee, prepares the best paper on this subject. The papers will be judged as to worthiness and merit, said Coombs.

Analytic Study Encouraged

A wide latitude of treatment will be permitted so that original and impartial thinking can be used in an analysis of the need for and the social benefit derived from the enactment of copyright law. Analytic study of the law itself will also be encouraged, Coombs said.

Upon completion of the contest the winning paper will be sent to the society. They will, in turn, submit the winning paper from each participating school to an authoritative national committee. The five best papers will be reprinted in a book entitled, "Copyright Law Symposium." This book will be widely distributed to the lawyers in the United States and abroad and to associations and organizations interested in the subject matter.

Coombs said any law student may participate in the contest but the winning paper must be selected from a group submitted by senior students in keeping with the rules set up by the society.

Nathan Burkan—Crusader

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, organized chiefly through the efforts of the late Victor Herbert and a group of well known contemporaries, endorsed the contest four years ago. Its purpose is to perpetuate the memory of Nathan Burkan, who surmounted the handicaps of poverty, foreign birth and a strange language, to rise to a position of pre-eminence in the legal profession.

Burkan was a crusader, freely giving his aid to any honorable cause. While practicing law he became interested in the plight of composers and authors of copyrighted musical works whose rights were at one time being deliberately infringed on. As a result he specialized in the practice of copyright law and was general counsel to the society until the time of his death in 1936.

THE OPEN SHELF—AN IMPORTANT PART OF YOUR EDUCATION

A multitude of presses throughout the land blacken millions of pages a year with language symbols and each year the dusty library stacks climb higher. The accumulated mass of printed volumes defies the limits of intelligence and patience. No man in a lifetime can read even a part of the endless "guff" that rolls from the presses yearly.

The Open Shelf in the main reading room of the library is the librarians' gift to the discriminating knowledge seeker. Trained in discriminating reading, the librarians separate the wheat from the chaff, the gold from the sand, and place the choice morsels within reach of the students. The result is a broad, liberal addition to a college education—with a minimum of effort.
